Taste of Edinburgh - Now With New Improved Flavour, Saturday April 03 2010

Good news for all you food fans as it was confirmed this week that the Taste of Edinburgh Festival will return this year from 28-30 May, and it'll be bigger and better than ever.

Culinary Queen Rachel Allen is just one the top celebrity chefs lined up to make live appearances in May, and there's the chance to be much more hands-on too, with even more interactive demonstrations and workshops, perfect for those of us who need a little help in the kitchen.

Visitors will be able to get up close and personal with some of these big names at the new Grill a Chef sessions, which will also see chefs from some of the city's award-winning restaurants, including the likes of Tony's Table, The Rutland and Malmaison, take part.

Tea, cheese, chocolate, meats, fruits, vegetables, dips – you name it, you'll be able to get your grubby mitts on some prime specialty tucker from local and national food producers. Just make sure you don't ask anyone for a deep fried mars bar.
